

Maggie gives her stamp of approval

I Have drawn Mrs Thatcher's attention to your interesting piece (Scope, April 21) about her special fondness for Maldon, which she confirms.

However, she did visit Maldon to speak for me during my first election campaign in February 1974 and since then I have had the pleasure of introducing her to Maldon salt and the New Hall wine from Purleigh, and can report that she approves of both.

I know she would be very pleased to visit Maldon again whenever she can find the time.

John Wakeham, MP, House of Commons, London.

Maldon and Burnham Standard, Thursday, October 20, 1977